

Miss Selma Zeigler Becomes the Bride of Charles Coplin

MISS SELMA ZEIGLER and Charles Coplin were married Tuesday evening at an impressive ceremony, performed in the living room of the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Zeigler, on West Boulevard. Rabbi Martin Ziehl officiated. In a small alcove adjoining the living room, was arranged a bower of smilax vines and lilies of the valley. Through the greenery were many small electric light globes of varying colors. Above were turtle doves and many butterflies. On either side of the alcove entrance were tall wicker baskets, filled with vari colored large chrysanthemums. As the bride, dressed in "L'bergren", was played by a stringed orchestra, the bride party entered and took their places in the floral bower, where the ceremony was performed.

Edmund Dayton Lachman was Mr. Coplin's best man. The bride was attended by her father, Albert Zeigler. The bride was dressed in a white satin gown, draped over cloth of silver and silver lace. The skirt was of ankle length and very full. The bodice was formed of the silver lace over the satin and the girl was of real duchesse lace. From the shoulders fell a court train of satin. Her tulle veil was held in place by sprays of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Zeigler, the bride's mother, wore a gown of black satin, with a waist of burgundy colored satin, veiled in black lace and trimmed with jet and steel beaded embroidery.

Mrs. C. Leon, the bride's grandmother, was dressed in black satin, trimmed with gold and steel beaded embroidery.

Only the most intimate friends of the family attended the ceremony. An elaborate reception followed the marriage service, which was attended by about 200 guests. The rooms of the house were decorated with a profusion of flowers and greenery, with numerous butterflies and doves arranged about the foliage. A color plan of pink, white and green was used. Pink carnations and smilax formed a cover for the piano top, with lighted candles in silver sticks among the greenery.

A buffet supper was served in the dining room. A clump lace cloth over pink satin covered the table. In the center of the wedding cake was a vase of Cecil Brunner roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Edna Mathias cut the ring in the cake. Pink candles in silver sticks under pink satin shades, and numerous vases of Cecil Brunner roses decorated the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Coplin left later in the evening for a wedding trip to New York city. They will visit Mr. Coplin's mother in Atlantic City, N. J., for a short time. Mrs. Coplin is going away with a dark green broadcloth, trimmed with seal fur. She wore a small black velvet hat. As she left she tossed away her bridal bouquet.
